Garrison

Sued For $100,000

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Lawyer Dean Andrews filed a $100,000 damage suit Tuesday against Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison, who summoned him before the grand jury in connection with the Kennedy administration probe.

Andrews, who pleaded innocent Tuesday at his arraignment on a charge of perjury before the grand jury, charged in the suit that Garrison tried to trap him into making false statements before the grand jury.

A SHORT, fat lawyer who peppers his talk with jive slang, Andrews testified before the Warren Commission that a Clay Bertrand contacted him by phone after the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy and asked him to represent Lee Harvey Oswald in Dallas.

Andrews contended in the suit that he told Garrison last December he could not identify Clay Shaw as the man he knew as Clay Bertrand.

He also claimed that Garrison tried to pressure him into identifying a Julian Buzneda as the Mexican-American who visited Andrews' office with Oswald, prior to the assassination.

SHAW, a wealthy retired executive, is charged with criminal conspiracy to murder Kennedy. Garrison accused Shaw of using the alias Bertrand in plotting the President's death. Shaw denied ever using an alias and pleaded innocent at his arraignment.

Shaw is free on $10,000 bond, with his lawyers preparing special pleadings in the case. Andrews is free under $1000 bond.

In addition to his private practice in New Orleans, Andrews also was an assistant district attorney in adjoining Jefferson Parish. He was suspended from the job shortly before being indicted.
